

Farm to School Resources

Appalachian Sustainable Agriculture Project's Growing Minds Program -
<http://www.growing-minds.org/>

The southeast regional lead agency for the National Farm to School Network, this site offers regional resources and a focus on the four components of farm to school. Includes general information, lesson plans, recipes, and tool kits for farmers, Child Nutrition Directors and Educators. .

Community Food Security Coalition - http://www.foodsecurity.org/farm\_to\_school.html
Includes information about procurement, the need for farm to school, how farm to school works, organizing tools, case studies, possible funding sources, and other publications.

Cornell University - Farm to School Research and Extension Program-
<http://farmtoschool.cce.cornell.edu/>

While focusing on NY farm to school, this site offers a wide variety of articles and publications, such as a toolkit for extension educators and community leaders, that are applicable nationwide. Good source for facts and resources from an established program.

National Farm to School Network - <http://www.farmtoschool.org/>

Farm to school on a national level, organized by region and state. Publications including case studies & feasibility analysis, evaluation tools and reports, buying and selling local foods, how to get started, curricular resources and more.

UC Davis - Sustainable Ag. Research and Education

<http://www.sarep.ucdavis.edu/cdpp/farmtoschool/index.htm>

Academic research based resources including publications focusing on direct marketing to schools and community food systems.

Vermont FEED - <http://www.vtfeed.org/>

Regional lead agency for the Northeast, Vermont FEED is a model farm to school program. This site includes resources such as school lunch program recipes, healthy snack lessons, a taste test guide and teacher units.

Wisconsin Homegrown Lunch -<http://www.reapfoodgroup.org/farmtoschool/>

Midwest farm to school, including resources for food service and educators. Highlights a program that includes chefs in the classroom, snack program, USDA Fruit and Vegetable Program, school fundraisers and school wellness policies.